

WOODS CROSS BASKETBALL: Assistant coaches

Jeff Jorgensen

COACH JORGENSEN

is a familiar face in the Woods Cross area. He is currently the principal at nearby South

Jorgensen

Davis Junior High and has been an assistant basketball coach at WXHS for the last eight years.

He was born in Tacoma, Wash., and grew up in Colorado Springs, Colo. He went to high school at Palmer and Doherty high schools, where he excelled in basketball and football.

He has been coaching for 25 years in many different sports, including football, golf, and track. Basketball has been his main focus – with 10 of those years as head coach at nearby Northridge High. He also has spent time coaching at Roy, Layton, Brighton and, of course, here at Woods Cross.

Stephen Baker

COACH BAKER was born in Denver (Colo.) and grew up in Riverton. He went to Riverton High School and played varsity basketball between 2003-2006.

After high school, he received a college basketball scholarship to Eastern Wyoming and played during the 2006 and 2007 seasons. He is now currently going to school at Salt Lake Community College, studying in the field of science.

Coach Baker started his coaching career at Riverton High, where he coached for one season before moving to Jordan. He coached the JV team there for three seasons.

Besides helping with the varsity, Baker is also the JV coach here.

Chad Lythgoe

COACH LYTHGOE has been teaching and coaching at Woods Cross High School for 12 years and has been part of the basketball, baseball and football programs.

His primary responsibility during this time of the year is being the head sophomore coach.

Lythgoe was born and raised in Billings, Mont. and was a multi-sport athlete growing. He played his basketball at Billings High but, before his senior season, a car accident kept him from playing.

Coach Lythgoe has been married for 16 years to the love of his life, Dawna. They have three children – two girls and a boy.

Tyler Stahle

COACH STAHLE is another familiar face here at Woods Cross.

Although he was born in Provo, he grew up here and was a standout student-athlete for the Wildcat hoop teams from 2006-09.

He was first team all-region twice and was named second team all-state in his senior year. He also won the Sterling Scholar award in Computer Technology.

After high school, he played one season at Hartnell College in Monterey, Calif., and then served an LDS Church mission in Zimbabwe.
